Nanking In Grips Of Bloody Terror

Attempt To Quash Red Guards

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China's Red Guards fought bloody battles in Nanking for three days last week against workers who poured into the eastern Chinese city to wipe out the Red Guard movement, dispatches from Peking reported Saturday. They said the city 530 miles southeast of Peking is in the grip of terror.

A Czechoslovak dispatch told of 60,000 captives on both sides in the fighting who underwent torture.

Pope Paul Vows Continued Work For World Peace

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI vowed Saturday to continue his Vietnam peace efforts and called on responsible leaders to heed them.

He said if this came about, the new year would bring "a march toward peace."

Speaking at his annual meeting with diplomats from around the world accredited to the Holy See, Pope Paul declared:

"We will not cease to work according to our possibility for the advent of a just and durable peace."

His 1,500-word address, delivered in French, did not mention Vietnam by name. But he spoke in terms unmistakably reflecting his feelings about the Southeast Asian war. He thanked the 59 diplomats present for their governments' sympathetic reception of his initiatives for peace.

The Pope has appealed many times for an end to the Vietnam fighting and, a year ago, sent direct messages to Moscow, Peking, Washington, Hanoi and Saigon urging negotiations. None of these governments is diplomatically represented at the Vatican.

The Pope spoke in reply to the traditional New Year's greeting of the diplomatic corps expressed by its dean, Baron Prosper Poswick, Belgian ambassador to the Vatican.

The Pope said the Roman Catholic Church's function in the modern world was to place "itself, for love, at the services of men." In doing this, he stressed, the Church rejected what he said were two extreme concepts of its mission.

One of these, he said, held that the Church should remain completely aloof from temporal events and deal only in spiritual matters while the other would have the Church so involved in worldly events that it would give its support to violent revolution.

Instead of following either of these roads, he declared, the Church sought to bring a spirit of "justice and charity" into society.

"In this way," he went on, "the structures of society, which a sudden and radical change would brutally and dangerously subvert, find themselves progressively organized in justice and liberty."

CONSTITUTION WINS IN SPAIN

MADRID (AP)—The government announced Spanish Africa voted for Gen. Francisco Franco's proposed constitution, changes in the Dec. 14 referendum with 70 per cent approval in Guinea and 92 per cent in the almost uninhabited Spanish Sahara. The homeland Spanish vote was 84.2 per cent for.

MOUNTAIN SCENE FOR WEDDING GIFT

OTTAWA (AP)—Canada's wedding gift to the Canadian-born Dutch Princess Margriet, 23, is a snow-covered mountain scene titled "Gatineau Winter," by Ottawa artist Henri Masson. She is marrying Dutch lawyer Pieter Van Vollenhoven, 27, next Tuesday in the Netherlands. Margriet, the third of four Dutch princesses, was born in Ottawa Civic Hospital while her mother, now Queen Juliana, was a refugee here in World War II.

"Their fingers, noses and ears were chopped off, their tongues cut out," said a report of the news agency CTK to Prague.

Japan's Kyodo news service said Red Guard wall posters in Peking reported 54 persons killed, 900 wounded and 6,000 arrested in clashes Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

Reports of the clashes came amid accounts that a showdown was imminent between Communist party chairman Mao Tse-tung and a faction led by President Liu Shao-chi. Liu is accused of being a "black commander of the bourgeois class."

Kyodo's correspondent in Peking quoted the Red Guard posters as saying the clash last Tuesday tied up rail service in Nanking for two days. CTK said Nanking's transport was in a state of paralysis and that telephone connections were cut off.

The Czechoslovak dispatch said workers and students poured into Nanking from neighboring Anhui Province, Shanghai and other cities of Kiangsu Province, which includes Nanking. Shanghai is 170 miles southeast of Nanking.

The CTK dispatch placed the workers' force at half a million. It quoted Red Guard leaflets as saying the workers' aim was to liquidate the Red Guard organization.

Kyodo gave this account which it said was pieced together from the Red Guard posters in Peking:

On Tuesday, 100,000 members of the "workers Red Corps" attacked the Nanking Red Guards organization. Fourteen persons were killed and 400 were seriously wounded. The workers' uprising on this day was led by Li Su-ying, described as a Kiangsu Province Communist party secretary.

On Thursday and Friday, clashes broke out again and 40 persons were killed, 500 wounded and 6,000 arrested. It did not make clear who made the arrests. Those arrested were not identified. These uprisings were blamed by the Red Guards on Hsu Chi-chun, another provincial party secretary. The wall posters contended Deputy Premier Tao Chu, party propaganda chief, was behind the clashes.

Tao Chu's name appeared at the same time on a new Red Guard list of persons described as followers of President Liu. Others were the party Secretary-General Teng Hsiao-ping; Li Hsueh-feng, first secretary of the Peking City Communist party and the capital's mayor; Li Ching-chuan, former associate of Mao; and Ulanfu, minister of nationality affairs.

A dispatch of the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug from Peking said Mao and his chief lieutenant in the purge of anti-Maoists, Marshal Lin Biao, appear ready now to deliver their final blows against the Liu faction. The dispatch noted that Mao and Lin themselves had publicly assailed Liu and Teng.

Former Football Player Faces Murder Charge

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A 38-year-old air line pilot faces trial Monday on charges that he shot his wife to death as she stepped out of a shower in their fashionable suburban home.

The pilot, Lawrence J. Stevens, told police when he was arrested last October that the shooting was an accident.

Stevens was a member of the University of Illinois football team that defeated Stanford in the 1952 Rose Bowl and later was a Marine pilot in Korea. He has been a pilot for Delta Airlines for the past 10 years.

Mrs. Stevens was shot to death on Sunday night, Oct. 23. She was the former Peggy Sak-rider of Robinson, Ill.

Police said Stevens told them he was holding a .22 caliber rifle by the barrel and that the gun accidentally fired when he dropped the butt end on the floor. Mrs. Stevens was shot in the neck, directly under the chin.

The couple's two daughters, 11 and 14, heard the shot and ran to another part of the house, police said. Mrs. Stevens was 35.

A grand jury indictment five days later charged Stevens with murder and he was freed in $25,000 bond. Bond is generally not allowed to persons charged with murder in Georgia.

Claude R. Ross, the pilot's attorney, said the defense would claim the shooting was an accident.

Stevens graduated from the University of Illinois in 1952 after attending high school in Robinson, Ill.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. L.J. Stevens, live in Robinson.

Pinch-Penny Mandate Soviet Faces New Congress Shifts

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Under the lowering shadow of the Vietnam war, a new Congress which leaders believe has a pinchpenny mandate from the voters opens its doors Tuesday for a months-long session.

Both houses appear headed for a wrangling beginning which could set the tone for almost continuous controversy as the members appraise the state of the war in Asia and the state of President Johnson's "Great Society" at home.

The White House announced Saturday that the President will deliver his annual speech on the State of the Union in person to a joint session of Congress on Tuesday night.

This means that the administration program will be laid before the legislators before either chamber can get very far into controversies coming up as preliminaries to legislative action.

The House must decide whether to deny a seat to Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D.-N.Y., or remove him from chairmanship of the Education and Labor Committee, or take some lesser disciplinary action.

Powell, a Negro, is in hot water because of troubles with the law in New York and because of his conduct of committee business.

In the Senate, a hardy band of liberals has served notice it will try to water down Rule 22, which requires a two-thirds majority to end filibuster talk.

As matters stand, neither effort seems likely to go anywhere.

Johnson's delivery of his message will be a down-to-work signal for a Congress in which Republicans will be flexing their voter-enlarged biceps and in which many Democrats are reading the November election (Turn To Page Eleven)

Chicago Keeps Watchful Eye On Strike Talks

CHICAGO (AP)—Thousands of children — and parents, too — kept their eyes and ears open Saturday for word of some action that might avert a strike of public elementary and high school teachers Monday.

"We are preparing for a strike," said John E. Desmond, president of the Chicago Teachers Union (CTU).

He said there had been no change in the situation, and no invitation from the mayor's office or elsewhere to new contract talks.

The CTU, which represents 13,500 of the 23,000 teachers, is asking $50 million in salary increases plus other improvements.

A strike would be the first in the city's history by elementary and high school teachers. The 550 schools have an enrollment of 570,000.

The CTU has requested across-the-board raises of $500 a month now and $500 Sept. 1. Salaries now range from $550 a month at the start of service to $750 after 11 years.

The Cook County College Teachers Union went on strike Friday against Chicago's eight public junior colleges. The union, representing 500 of the 664 teachers, wants a shorter work year, a lighter course load and smaller classes. It also seeks raises of $1,650 a year. The starting salary now is $6,450.

The Chicago Board of Education and the Chicago Junior College Board have stated they don't have the money.

The subject was the Dec. 12-13 secret meetings of the party's Central Committee and the speech Breshnev made to it.

The speech was not made public after the meeting, meaning it was a hot item politically. The committee resolution following it, however, said the great power "anti-Soviet policy of Mao Tse-tung and his group has entered a new, dangerous stage." It said the meeting had found it necessary to expose the wayward course "of the present

First Landing In Mekong Delta

Marines Struggle In Swamps

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—U.S. Marines struggled through waist-deep, vehicle-miring swamps Saturday in the opening phase of an American campaign in the Mekong River delta that could make this the bloodiest year of the Vietnamese war.

The heavily populated delta, with mangrove thickets and rice paddies laced by 25,000 navigable miles of waterways, has been out of the martial mainstream because of the prospect that sharp action against indigenous Viet Cong bands would mean heavy civilian casualties.

It's hard for even a native to distinguish guerrillas from peaceful pajama-clad peasants.

But the delta has been a heartland of the Communists for 20 years and now Americans are joining Vietnamese troops in an effort to crush guerrilla bands estimated to total 100,000 men. Vietnamese efforts over the years had led but to a stalemate negating hard-won gains farther north.

The Viet Cong's extensive delta organization feeds large quantities of men, supplies and money to Red units in other parts of the country. The rice harvest is on now in the delta and Viet Cong tax agents are levying grain from the peasants in areas the Communists control.

Swamp mud and water initially proved a greater obstacle than the Viet Cong who, in company with Vietnamese marines, are making the first big American thrust into the delta. Eight vehicles had to be towed out.

Enemy resistance to the 4,000-man task force, which stormed ashore by landing craft and helicopters on White Beach Friday from a flotilla of 12 U.S. Navy ships, was reported limited to scattered sniper fire. The operation, called Backhouse River, centers 55 miles south of Saigon.

From the air the delta looks like a picture postcard land. But Vietnamese troops regularly assigned there have found campaigning ugly business. It was with reluctance that U.S. military planners decided American units, with the fantastic firepower of heavy artillery and fighter-bombers, should move in to help.

Their fear was — and is — that an aggressive military stance among the seven million or so delta dwellers might label U.S. forces a colonialist army. That is a tag avoided so far because the Americans have been deployed where there are fewer people and more room to maneuver.

Experts figure a full infantry division, 15,000 or so men, is the minimum needed to really start carving through the stalemate. They estimate the initial cost of deployment of such a division and its supporting units at a billion dollars. The call for helicopters, light armored vehicles and river craft would be larger than normal in a region of firmer ground.

6 Killed In Motel Explosion

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A three-story motel was virtually destroyed Saturday by an apparently suicidal blast that killed six persons and injured eight.

The downtown area was rocked at 1:25 a.m. by an explosion police believe was touched off by someone firing a bullet into dynamite.

Police said the blast centered in Room 214 of the Orbit Inn, registered to a Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Paris of Hollywood, Calif. They were driving a car with Florida license plates.

Man May Reach Stars On A Sunbeam

By WILLIAM C. HARRISON
 AP Science Writer
 PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — To reach the stars, man may ride a sunbeam, says a research engineer.

John H. Bloomer, 32, who works on computers and design for Philco Corp. in nearby Sunnyvale, tells how it may happen one day:

A giant mirror will collect solar energy to power a spacecraft across 25 trillion miles of space travel are at the core of Bloomer's calculations. Alpha Centauri's distance is so great it is measured in light years—how far light, at 186,000 miles a second, will travel in a year. That's about six trillion miles, the "neighbor" star is 4.3 light years away.

Chemical rocket propulsion such as we use today to explore within our own sun system is far too primitive to be considered for interstellar travel.

The key, he said in an interview, is a system of vast mirrors and lenses orbiting the sun and working in conjunction with a very large laser.

A 60-mile-diameter plastic mirror with a reflective metal coating must be assembled in space to "ride behind" the earth in this planet's orbital path around the sun, Bloomer explains. At that mirror's center would be a mirror one mile across.

The larger mirror would collect solar energy and focus it into a mile-wide laser system, orbiting 60 miles away. The laser could convert the "incoherent" or diffused sunlight into an extremely powerful concentrated beam of light.

He envisions sending first an unmanned fly-by spy to search for the planets like the earth in the Alpha Centauri three-star system.

"We can send a probe to Alpha Centauri before the year 2099," says Bloomer.

Party Leaders Urged Kennedy To Avoid Dallas — Manchester

killed Kennedy and wounded Texas Gov. John B. Connally. Its report says Oswald acted alone.

Manchester evidently came to the same conclusion, for he attempts to probe for Oswald's motive. He attributes it to the fact that Oswald was the "diabetic opposite" of Kennedy, contrasting their respective records in the armed forces and writing that Kennedy was "all-powerful" while Oswald was "impotent."

"Kennedy was cheered; Oswald ignored," the book says. "Kennedy was beloved; Oswald despised. Kennedy was a hero. Oswald was a victim."

Why did Kennedy, against his wishes, go to Texas at all?

Manchester goes into considerable detail about the feud between Texas liberals, whose "hero" was Sen. Ralph Yarborough and Gov. Connally a conservative. The senator, Manchester writes, considered Johnson a "co-conspirator" of Connally's.

The book notes that the Kennedy-Johnson ticket had carried Texas "by an eyelash" in the 1960 presidential election. And Manchester concluded that if the Yarborough-Connally feud could not soon be patched up, "the national ticket wouldn't stand a chance there next fall."

Hence, Kennedy's decision to go to Texas. Describing the President's attitude, Manchester wrote: "The prospect was unappetizing and vexing to the chief executive. It appeared to him that Johnson ought to be able to resolve this petty dispute himself, the trip seemed to be an imposition."

During the planning stages for it, Mrs. Kennedy was in Greece recuperating from the loss of her third child. She wrote her husband 10-page letters, sprinkled with dashes, telling him how much she missed him and how she wished he could be with her, away from the tensions of Washington.

"There's just one thing I couldn't stand," she said, "if I ever lost you..."

But when the President's wife returned to Washington, on Oct. 17, her spirits were high. Manchester says she told her husband, "We'll campaign. I'll campaign with you anywhere you want."

The President was delighted. For the first time in their marriage, Manchester reported, he talked about her wardrobe. He wanted to know, especially, what she would wear at the scheduled luncheon in Dallas.

He told her: "There are going to be all these rich Republican women at that lunch, wearing mink coats and diamond bracelets. Be simple—show these Texans what good taste really is."

The book says Mrs. Kennedy thereupon came in and out of his room, showing him dresses she liked.

A last-minute contretemps with respect to her wardrobe developed.

Gen. McHugh, his Air Force aide, had advised the President that the weather in Texas would be cool during his three days there, beginning Nov. 20. As the presidential party was about to leave for the airport, it was learned that the weather had turned hot.

"Kennedy cried in dismay," Manchester writes. "He lunged for his telephone and dialed his wife's maid's extension. 'Pack some cool dresses,' he said urgently."

But his wife's dresses already were in a helicopter which had left for the airfield, Kennedy "chewed out" McHugh, the book says.

The departure also caused Kennedy to miss his French lesson, the book says. The tutor for his daughter, Caroline, had been giving him language lessons for two months. This, Manchester says, was a "closely guarded secret."

Kennedy wanted to learn French so that he could conduct future negotiations with French President Charles de Gaulle in De Gaulle's own language. He asked the tutor, Mme. Jacqueline Hirsch, how long she thought it would take him, she replied.

"I bet I do it in six months," Kennedy replied.

Manchester writes that Kennedy expected to be re-elected in a "historic landslide" in 1964. His expectations were accentuated by his feeling that the "GOP would yield to its death wish and nominate Barry Goldwater."

He already was pondering the makeup of his second cabinet.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara would become secretary of state and McNamara "almost certainly" would head the new Cabinet. Robert F. Kennedy wished to resign as attorney general and be appointed assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Manchester writes, was "aware that the President intended to be his own foreign minister" and "had leaned on him increasingly in other ways."

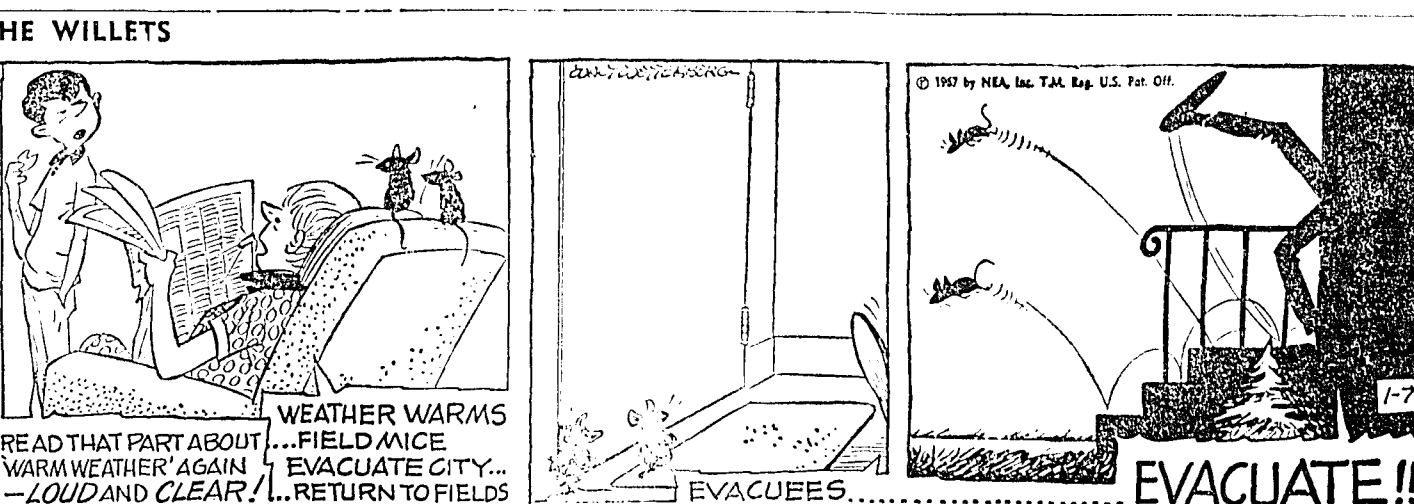

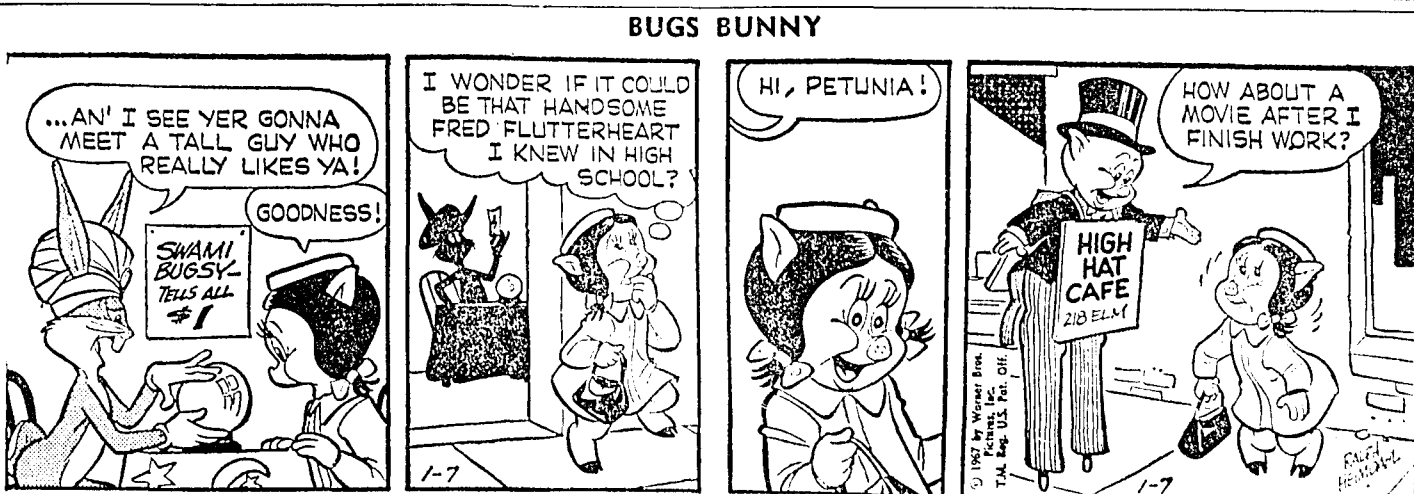

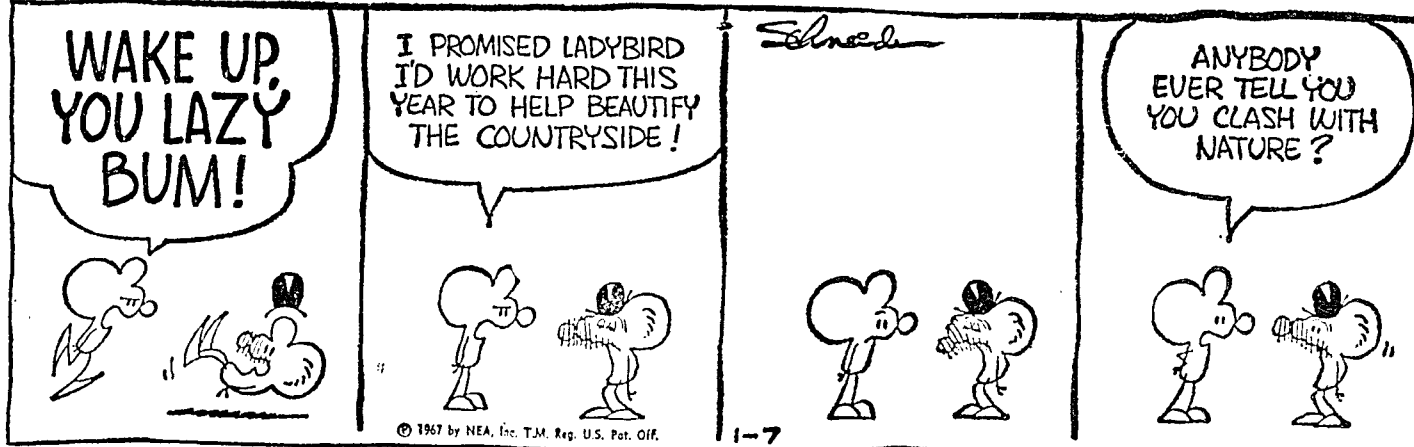

Manchester asserts that the governor was thinking ahead to the 1964 campaigning and writes, "The governor wanted to run ahead of the ticket. He wanted Yarborough to lose, and with that in mind, he planned to make political capital out of the forthcoming presidential tour."

The book says that one of Connally's planned stratagems was to have two-tiered, headlamps in Dallas and Austin. With the President and vice president, Connally planned to sit at the top table. Yarborough and other officials would be relegated to the lower one.

In the motorcade, agents notified Yarborough that he was supposed to ride with Johnson. Instead, the senator twice chose to ride with friends in other cars. Manchester says the 40 correspondents covering the tour "saw him avoiding the vice president" and "decided to call it a snub."

The book reports that Mrs.

EEK and MEEK

Kennedy "blurted out" that she disliked Connally. The President asked why and she replied: "I can't stand him all day. He's just one of those men — oh, I don't know. I just can't bear his sitting there saying all these great things about himself. And he seems to be needing you all day."

Kennedy reminded her that he had come to Texas to try to heal political wounds and said, "I'm trying to start by getting two people in the same car." So he asked her to put aside her hostility to the governor. Manchester reports that she did so.

Big and friendly crowds greeted the presidential party wherever it appeared and the tour approached its tragic climax in an hour of good feeling. The first installment of the long, cylindrical, brown paper biographical details in the life of Lee Harvey Oswald, his temporary estrangement from his wife, Marina, and the rare hour when he carried a package of his own making to Dallas. He said it contained curtain rods.

Make Plans To Blacktop Square At Carrollton

CARROLLTON — The blacktopping of the Carrollton city square and the possibility of acquiring a greater water supply for the ever growing city of Carrollton were the main points of discussion Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the Carrollton City Council.

The engineers, Casler and Associates of Jacksonville, are already drawing up plans for the blacktopping of the city square through the cooperation of the Carrollton City Council and the Greene County Board of Supervisors. It is expected that the work will be done as early as possible this spring.

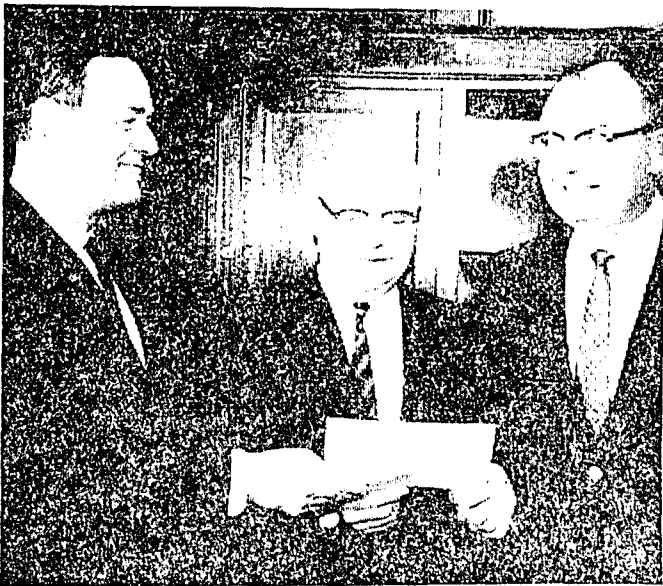

The problem of a greater water supply for the city was discussed. To date the water supply has been sufficient although during the summer months the present water system has been taxed to capacity. The only relief for the situation at present seems to be the sinking of a well in the river and piping the water to the Carrollton area, however no definite action was taken Tuesday evening.

HOLIDAY SUPPER AT TURNER HOME

ROODHOUSE — A Christmas eve supper and pre-anniversary celebration for Mr. and Mrs. Curtis McPherson of Roodhouse was held at the E.C. Turner home here. After a gift exchange the young people and children left to view the lights and decorations in the area.

Vernon Caine. The unrestricted cash gift is one of 150 during the year from Gulf under a $300,000 Aid-to-Education program.

Illinois College has received annual Gulf grants since 1960. The company program for strengthening independent institutions of higher education includes also capital grants, merit scholarships, matching-grants, departmental assistance grants, graduate fellowships, and special purpose or research grants.

Pittsfield Council OK's Civil Defense Program

PITTSFIELD — Members of the Pittsfield City Council heard Bill Hook from the Quincy Civil Defense office tell the need for such a program in Pittsfield. The speaker stated it is a mandatory law to have such a program in operation.

Griggsville in Pike county does have this program and Barry, also in Pike, is in the process of organizing one. The speaker suggested that a Civil Defense Director be named and a salary appropriated for same. He told council members a county pays one-fourth the salary and the federal government one half and the city assumes the other quarter obligation.

Such an organization not only is set up in case of sudden attack but also functions for disasters such as floods, storms, devastating fires, etc.

Mayor Frank Penstone appointed Albert Trautwein, Clay Owens and Lawrence Bradburn to name a man for this post.

Attorney Lewis Grigsby answered several questions for his client, the Cable TV company interested in establishing in Pittsfield. The matter was again tabled and will be dealt with at the next meeting. The councilable TV committee, City Attorney A. W. Schimmel, Aldermen Bergman, Dunham and Penstone will continue meeting.

Clay Owens was named to the planning committee to replace Junior Dunham, who resigned. This committee is to meet at 8 p.m. Jan. 10th.

Pittsfield News

The program encourages farmers to shift production of surplus crops to conserving land uses and establishes practice for conservation of soil, water, woodlands and wildlife. Interested parties should contact the local office.

The $5,500 goal for sale of TB Seals in Pike county is still $500 short according to Mrs. Frances Long, chairman of the Association.

Publisher Says Fighting Men Being Betrayed

NEW YORK (AP) — William Randolph Hearst Jr. charged Saturday that as a "direct result of Communist-inspired propaganda and the bugaboo of world opinion this nation is not doing all it can and should do to win the war in Vietnam."

The publisher, writing in the Sunday edition of the World Journal Tribune, said, "Because of timidity in Washington the heroic American men who are fighting and dying over there are being betrayed."

Hearst said these were strong words, angry words, but said they were written "in behalf of the battle veterans who to date have seen more than 6,500 of their buddies killed while fighting — in effect — with one hand tied behind them."

He said that what he meant was "the pussyfoot policy limiting our bombing in North Vietnam."

Hearst said the enemy and its friends are carrying out a propaganda campaign that can be summed up in three words: "Stop the bombing."

Hearst said he did not blame President Johnson for the present policy, but blamed instead a "fearful group" among the President's advisers.

He said he had a "hunch" the President has a fresh approach in the making and advised Johnson: "He should announce that we are in this war to win, that is, to compel the enemy to negotiate, and that from now on we are going all out to do it — including the bombing of all strategic targets in the North necessary to do the job, starting with enemy airfields."

ROBINSON BLAST CLAIMS 3 LIVES

ROBINSON, Ill. (AP) — Three bodies were pulled Saturday from the rubble of an explosion and fire which occurred Friday at the Robinson refinery of Marathon Oil Co.

Workers continued clearing the area of the explosion to allow investigators to probe the cause of the blast which rocked Robinson and was felt 40 miles away in Terre Haute, Ind.

The three men killed were inside a building housing the catalytic cracking compressor. They were Harold Martin, 51, Earl Athey, 47, and Forrest Butcher, 43. The building was leveled by the blast.

John Coddington, plant manager, said the plant will be inoperable for an indefinite period. He said no estimate of damage is available.

STRIKES PARKED CAR

West told police he turned off Lorton onto West Beecher and another car was going east on Beecher and he pulled to the right and struck the parked car.

Congress

results as calling for a breathing spell on new programs.

Republican leaders are planning their own State of the Union presentation.

One of the first pieces of major legislation to work its way through both houses is likely to provide for an increase in Social Security benefits. This will not affect the spending budget, sure to come under hot fire from Republicans when Johnson submits it later in the month.

On its heels—or possibly before it—will come a supplemental appropriation to finance the skyrocketing cost of the Vietnam war. Johnson has said he will ask between $9 billion and $10 billion more. The request could be even higher.

As with everything else that affects Vietnam, this appropriation is likely to be used as a forum for acrimonious debate over Johnson's Asian policies.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee already has provided for the beginning of this by calling Secretary of State Dean Rusk for closed and open door testimony Jan. 16 and Jan. 23.

With the national debt bumping against its present $330-billion ceiling, the House Ways and Means Committee has given first priority to a proposal to raise the limit still higher.

Republicans can use this to assail what Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois predicted might be a $20 billion deficit for the year beginning July 1. He promised some fat-cutting and water-draining, pointing to "monumental" outlays for space as one object of attention.

Dirksen made it clear he would oppose any sharp increase in taxes at this point. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana reported the President had made no decision on a possible tax increase.

Even if Johnson holds new recommendations to a minimum, as Mansfield said he is confident the President will do, Congress will have its work cut out for it in dealing with existing programs and expiring legislation.

The military draft will have to be renewed before its June 30 expiration date. There is controversy over the form this should take but there seems to be a preponderance of opinion against reshaping Selective Service into a lottery.

The anti-poverty and National Teachers Corps authorizations, both the subject of hot controversy, expire at midyear. Unless surface signs fail the poverty program may be torn apart and its services distributed among several departments.

Rent supplements, which go along with these, need no new authorization. But they do need funds and that will involve a struggle. The same is true of the demonstration cities program.

Civil rights remains an unknown quantity. Johnson may feel the political necessity for recommending legislation to eliminate most housing discrimination even though the more liberal 89th Congress refused to take it.

Other issues likely to be controversial include: Postal rates — Administration request for an increase likely to be countered by an attack on the efficiency of the postal service.

Labor — Legislation to curb national emergency walkouts will be considered but action is doubtful unless Johnson lays down an administration formula. No repeal in sight on state bans on union shop.

Chinese leaders, to step up the struggle in defense of Marxism-Leninism.

Details of the danger, of how to expose and to step up the struggle, were not given publicly. They are the underlying policy.

In fact, non-Communist analysts here say, a shift on China became apparent in a Pravda editorial Nov. 27. It was the strongest denunciation of Mao's group in years. It held out for the first time the suggestion that the Soviet Union was backing Mao's opponents in the Chinese power struggle.

About the same time, informed sources said, semipublic meetings were being held to spread the party word about tensions on the China border. The meetings were intended to alert the public to the existence of a possible future enemy.

On Dec. 29 the Defense Ministry newspaper Red Star revealed the other side of this coin. It published a long editorial saying the Chinese army was being taught that the Soviet Union was the enemy.

Liberals

In their effort to topple two chairmen, the liberals will be going against the wishes of Speaker John W. McCormack. D-Mass., who regards the seniority system as a cornerstone of congressional organization. If it succeeds, the study group will have achieved a goal long sought by advocates of congressional reforms.

Although the study group has officially taken no stand on the Powell issue, a motion to take the important chairmanship away from him will be made by a leader of the group, Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz.

Udall said he will ask the Democratic Committee on Committees, which assigns members to committees and designates chairmen, to name Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., chairman of the committee now headed by Powell, a Negro democrat from New York. Perkins now is second in seniority behind Powell, whose new ranking would be left to the Democratic Committee on Committees.

"I will then vote to seat Powell," Udall told newsmen, "on the grounds his constituents know all the circumstances about him, elected him and would undoubtedly continue to elect him."

"Powell probably won't agree with me, but I think I'm doing him a favor. This is probably the only thing that could save his seat."

Greenview Survives Ashland Bid 57-52

Plains Cops Third With 64-49 Edge

By DAVE INGLE
ASHLAND — It was too late here Saturday night as the host Ashland Panthers rallied vainly before bowing to Greenview 57-52, in the Championship game of the 39th Annual Ashland Invitational Tournament.

In preliminary action, Pleasant Plains used a 24-point fourth quarter to power to a 64-49 decision over Waverly for third place. The initial contest of the evening saw Mt. Sterling St. Mary's lose by Meredosia 44-35 for the championship of the consolation bracket.

Ashland spotted Greenview a six point lead early in the game, dropped to ten and twelve points down later on in the match, and rallied valiantly in the closing minutes before losing.

Cold shooting was the Panthers' nemesis for the evening as they outscored the taller Bulldogs. Greenview starters hit for one bucket each in the opening minutes and the team was 5 for 8 from the floor while the Panthers were off to a miserable start, missing their first seven attempts.

Hot First Half
A three point play by Ashland's Mike Hardy with two minutes gone in the second stanza brought the hosts to within four, 16-12, but the Bulldogs got hot again to ring up a 26-18 margin at intermission. The third period was seasaw with the eventual winners holding a nine point advantage entering the final eight minutes.

Reserve forward Dave Klein put in a close-up bucket with 1:49 remaining in the game following a Hardy jumper to bring Ashland to a 48-52 count. Dave Hollis netted a free toss for the Bulldogs but Klein came right back with a tip-in with one minute left to get the Panthers to within three, 53-50. But that is as close as Ashland could get.

Cut To Five
John Williams was all alone under the Greenview basket and dropped in an easy one to make it 55-50 with 45 seconds left. Cal Forman drove in for a last Ashland bucket twenty seconds later and Williams banked in the final marker with four seconds left to ice the victory.

Greenview's big center Jody Clemens led the winners with 18 as Hollis and Ron Mason each added 11. Forman led Ashland with 16 points and Klein chipped in 11. For the evening Ashland could muster only a 29% mark from the floor while the Bulldogs hit 22 of 45 attempts for 48%. Ashland posted a 39-27 rebounding margin over the taller Greenview squad. The Panthers are now 7-5 for the year while Greenview sports a 9-3 season mark.

Pleasant Plains poured in 24 points in the final period in taking the third place game. Hampered by the loss of two starters with five personal fouls in the final period, the Scotties could manage only two field goals in 21 tries in the final eight minutes. Six Cardinals scored in the big Plains barrage.

Both teams were plagued by bad shooting throughout the contest, which managed to be close and exciting, for the first three quarters. Pleasant Plains hit for only 35 per cent from the floor for the evening but the Scotties shot for a meager 27 percent with 20 points and Mason had 16 effort.

Lanky Tom Harms led the Plains scoring attack with 23. Walt Frazier led SIU scorers with 18 and Ed Zastrow had 15.

Sunderlik Hits 62 To Pass Steagall

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — Underdog Millikin recorded its sixth straight victory and second in College Conference of Illinois competition with a 133-94 basketball victory over Carroll Saturday night.

Jack Sunderlik smashed a host of records by pacing the Big Blue with 62 points. Sunderlik's output topped the previous conference record of 59 points by Scott Steagall of nearby Alexander of Millikin in 1959.

The kickoff tournament is the San Diego Open at the Stardust Country Club Jan. 12-15 — the first of between 40 and 45 to be played during the year. The purse is $60,000.

Golf has the longest competitive run of major sports, going the 12-month scale from January through December, and many of the leading players contend it is much too demanding.

"You can't play 12 months and maintain an edge," says Nicklaus, the Masters and British Open champion. "I have set a schedule of 27 tournaments — I'll probably play less."

"The season is too long," adds Palmer. "We should confine ourselves to about 30 top tournaments on good courses."

Al Geiberger, the PGA champion, says, "I think we should have at least two months' break."

Money Too Inviting
But the purses are so big — escalating to a point that $100,000 tournaments are normal and $200,000 the new measure of prestige — that few of the players are willing to prune the schedule.

The cry among the have-nots — as contrasted to such golfing capitalists as Palmer, Nicklaus and Casper — is, "Let's have as many tournaments as possible — and give everybody a break."

The new season opens with questions on everybody's lips: Can Palmer, who blew a seven-stroke lead in the last nine holes to lose the 1965 open championship, storm back to win another major crown? His last was the Masters in 1964.

Will television, with increasing monies, move into a more dominant role and dictate the sport's policies as in baseball and pro football?

Can Casper, with new confidence and a relaxed diet, successfully defend his position as pro golfer of the year?

Twenty-four of the tournaments on the schedule have purses of $100,000 and more. The Canadian open at Montreal, starting June 29, has doubled its prize money to $200,000.

Carling Biggest Purse
The new Westchester Classic in Harrison, N.Y., Aug. 24-27 is offering the biggest purse ever for a regular 72-hole event. The Carling World is again a $200,000 tournament and the PGA team matches at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., will have prize money of $275,000.

The San Diego Open will be followed by the Bing Crosby at Pebble Beach Jan. 19-22 and the Los Angeles Open Jan. 26-29.

Highlighting the year will be the Masters April 6-9, with a purse of at least $152,880; the U.S. Open at Springfield, N.J., June 15-18, with a base of $150,000, and the PGA at Denver, offering at least $150,000.

Casper was not only Open winner last year but also the leading money winner, breaking the Palmer-Nicklaus stranglehold. Palmer, greatest money winner of all times, rallied to lead unofficial earnings.

Ex-Local Flight Ace Phoenix Car Dealer

Many local and area residents will remember the Fred Wharton Flying Field located south of Jacksonville in the 30's, 40's and early 50's, but how many remember Bob Shrock, the field's first flight instructor who came here in 1938 when the field opened?

Shrock taught many city and area aviation proselytes how to fly during the few years he was in Jacksonville. Today the 84-year old Shrock owns and operates a used-car lot in Phoenix, Ariz.

He knew flying almost from its inception, surviving the barn-storming years, the endurance tests, and the grandstand shows with the wing-walkers and parachute plummeters.

20-Year Veteran
When he came to Jacksonville from Fleck's Flying School at nearby Springfield, he was already a veteran of nearly 20 years' flying. Shrock learned on Canucks and Jennys at a grass strip near Wichita Falls, Texas.

He had barnstormed with famed flyers like Jimmy Doolittle and Eddie Stinson, and earned his wings by making a home out of America's airfields, both large and small.

His career stretched over 45 years, and he has logged 17,000 hours in the Wild Blue. Fred Wharton, who today operates a skating rink at the site of his old flying field, remembers Shrock well.

"Shrock was a ladies man, but a fine fellow," Wharton says. "He was honest," trustworthy and dependable."

Earned $2.50 Hour
Shrock, a bachelor until the age of 68 when he married an old flame, gave both basic and advanced flight training here, for which he earned $2.50 an hour, and was guaranteed $50 a week.

He took many local men, such as Charlie Calvin and Bob Hemphill, both of Jacksonville, and Bryon Smith, county commissioner from Franklin, through their first solo.

The old flying field, located south of Jacksonville near Memorial Lawn cemetery, had one airplane, a 1938 Piper, when Shrock came here. The field had a single hanger and a snack bar.

After Pearl Harbor, Shrock became a civilian flying instructor with the Navy at Curtiss-Wright Field in Ohio.

Let License Lapse
He has visited in Jacksonville on several occasions since leaving this city. He hasn't flown since 1964 when he let his commercial license lapse due to failing eyes and hearing.

But he can remember the old days when he got his name in headlines by attempting to break the world's airplane endurance record, then 200-hours from take-off to landing. He was in the air four days, but a mid-air refueling operation failed and he and his co-pilot cracked-up.

Today he stretches in the Arizona sunshine, and remembers.

KEEP BEAUTY KIT AT WORK

Never apply new make-up over old. Putting layer over layer causes clogged pores, blackheads and pimples. It also causes the make-up itself to change color and get blotchy. Do keep a beauty kit at work, so that you can change your make-up at noon and at the end of the day.

One of the first of the really great partnerships was that of P. Hal Sims and Willard S. Karn. This partnership left a lot to be desired in bidding methods but when the dummy hit the table either Hal or Willard would proceed to make up for any bad bidding by superlative play.

Hal liked to overbid in no-trump. Willard liked to hold back with a big hand until ready to jump to a final contract. This style explains Willard's pass with the South hand, his mere one heart response and his jump to six hearts. It also explains Hal's rebid to two no-trump with a singleton heart and no honor in the spade suit. The final contract was optimistic but not unreasonable. It was just the method of bidding it that shows experts acting unlike experts.

East won the opening spade lead with the ace and returned the suit. Willard was on lead with the king. He stopped to plan his play. Then he finessed dummy's jack of diamonds, cashed dummy's ace of trumps, ruffed dummy's four of clubs and ran off all his trumps.

With one trump left dummy was down to ace-queen-eight of diamonds and the king of clubs; West was holding king-ten-nine of diamonds and the ace of clubs. The last trump lead squeezed West out of the diamond nine. Willard discarded the king of clubs from dummy and made the last three tricks with the diamonds.

Looking for a Better Job?

Men and women, ages 18 and over, are wanted to prepare for U.S. Civil Service job openings during the next 12 months.

Government positions pay high starting salaries. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience.

But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

Lincoln Service has helped thousands prepare for these tests every year since 1948. It is one of the largest and oldest privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government.

To acquaint the readers of this newspaper with the splendid opportunities in Government positions full details have been printed in a new booklet: "U. S. Civil Service Positions and Salaries" which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Simply send your request with name, address and phone to Lincoln Service, Inc., 2211 Broadway, Dept. 9-6P, Pekin, Illinois. A post-card will do.

Prayer Poem

Stray Puppy

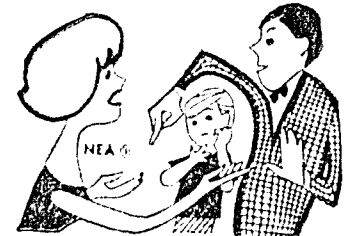

By Mary Pence Claywell

'Twas just about sundown... the air was so crisp... I wonder how many, the sad picture missed: I saw from my window, a poor little pup. So thin and so weary, it could scarcely stand up: I knew it was hungry... I'm sure it was tired, Still it kept moving onward, by pup-sense inspired: No doubt, 'twould find "mother" sometime, before night. Intent on its mission, with heart full of fright: Yet poor little "baby," a "girl," you've guessed right.

Would probably be searching the rest of the night: And when morning comes, out there in the street... Unless it finds "mercy"... there's nothing to eat: Lord, big dogs can make it, but little ones don't... Especially small "females," which nobody wants: And where will it end... when the wee one gives up? Some small one may finally grab up the starved pup.

To keep for "awhile," till almost fully grown, And ready to bring up some pups... of its own: Then, off goes its puppies... the girls, you are right, Dropped out to wander and shiver... all night: No one to love them, or feed them, it's true... God's eye is on you: Since the dog population, keeps growing each year... It seems it is right, Lord... to make matters clear: If a nice, little puppy... a discarded "girl," Is turned out to battle... the cold and hard world, And someone adopts it, and gives it a home, They should surely provide it has none of its own, To be dropped out helpless, so sad and bereft. And... controlled female puppies... are wonderful pets!

GIANT JET

By WALTER B. HENDRICKSON JR.

part 2: Hundred Tons Cargo
Last week we told you some of the fantastic things the giant 747 jetliner will be able to do. Here are some more eye wide-ners.

The 747 can also be fitted out to carry 100 tons of cargo, double the capacity of today's jetliners. It will be able to carry up to 26 cargo containers measuring 10 feet long, eight feet wide and eight feet high. Additional storage is available in the lower-deck forward and aft cargo compartments.

Movable Nose
To take on freight the nose of the 747 will swing up and rollers will carry the cargo the length of the floor. The loading of freight, or passengers' luggage will be fully automatic.

The 747 will have a 16 wheel main landing gear in four units of four wheels each. The nose gear will have two wheels. This arrangement will distribute the giant jet's weight evenly on airport ramps and runways.

Because of its size the 747 will be able to operate thirty to thirty-five per cent more economically than present-day jetliners. In announcing their choice of the 747 TWA made no mention of passing this savings on to its customers. However, some fare reductions will probably develop.

Boeing is planning to manufacture up to 200 747's by December 1972, and a total of 400 in three more years. The 747 is now undergoing engineering and wind tunnel tests which will run through 1967. Boeing is investing thirty-five million in the development of the 747.

Letters From Vietnam

get chicken and salads, and such American goodies. When they are at base camp, which is like their home they eat and sleep in tents.

Neither John nor Mel have actually seen any Communist guerrillas or had to fight them. Most of the fighting is done by trained Communist soldiers who are very good fighters. At the present some Vietnamese are trying to put mines in the roads.

More about Vietnam when we meet again next week—

Bye now—

SANTA'S DREAM

Well, as I said in the last flash there would be more about Vietnam in later columns—and so here it is.

The two soldiers who promised to provide me with the information are P.P.C. Samuel M. Jack, and Sp.4 John E. Gillette. Samuel goes by his middle name. Mel. Both of them said they hope we have the best of holidays.

Mel is 20 years old and tall. His home is in Illinois. John is 22 years old, and tall. His home state is in Wyoming, although he lived in Oklahoma before he went into the army. Unlike Mel, John has already decided on his career as a brick layer.

Near China
As you know Vietnam is very near China. The people there are of a yellow race. It rains most of the time in Vietnam; the rest of the time it is very hot and dry. John writes, "I went into Plekin which is a small town located about ten miles north of our base camp. Vietnam is one big pig pen. People are very, very poor and most of them are starving. It is really a pitiful thing."

"Most of the time I eat and sleep out in the field under the sky. I haven't eaten under a roof for seventy-five days, (as of Dec. 17, 1966)."

SANTA'S SLEIGH

One Christmas Eve Santa was working like mad getting all those toys ready. He got all of his toys ready and no reindeer! He didn't know what to do. He tried to find them but it was no use.

All of a sudden he thought of having a jet rocket. Then he could deliver more toys faster. He put two rockets on and boy did he go! When he got back, all of his reindeer were waiting there. They looked so sad.

All of a sudden the rocket fuel ran out. Santa started falling. All of the reindeer ran and caught him. Santa thanked them and asked them to take him for a ride.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE a zebra laugh? A 5-day-old zebra colt bares his teeth as he keeps close to his mother's side in a warm stall in the Como zoo barn at St. Paul, Minn. The little colt won't see the outdoors until the warm weather returns in the spring.

SHEEPHERD'S DOG

By John Rankin

part Two: Caught

But there was no man up there on the ledge now, the wary collie determined, and was herding the last stray sheep through a narrow passage past a tree when at a whirling sound overhead he looked up just as a rope head dropped over his head and tightened. Abruptly he was jerked off his feet fighting desperately and choking as the cruel noose grew tighter. Then the dark of night came and he knew nothing more.

When Jock next awakened he was muzzled and chained in the back of a pickup truck bouncing along over a strange road headed somewhere. Bewildered and angry at the harsh treatment he had received, his first thought was of his beloved and kindly master left standing at the gate to count the sheep as they filed into the corral.

As the truck sped on through the night cold wind whipped and lashed at Jock's body to punish him cruelly. He tried to curl up on the barren floor to ease some of its sting but the chain was too short and he stood shivering with teeth chattering and his tail tucked dolefully between his legs. How he yearned for the soft sheep skin at fireside back at his master's comfortable cabin.

For a long while as the car rumbled on through the night Jock lay in the darkened trunk, resentful of the harsh treatment he was receiving and highly uncertain of what fate held in store for him. But at least it was warm in there and eventually he curled up on a grimy old coat and slept.

A series of strange and baffling experiences awaited the unfortunate collie. The long ride in the trunk of the car came to an end about daybreak at an old house deep in the woods somewhere. Then he was placed in a crate and hauled into a town and loaded on a railroad car.

Much to his relief the awkward feeling muzzle had been

Lonely Road

At long last somewhere on a lonely road the truck stopped and the driver got out to talk briefly with a man waiting in a parked car. Some money changed hands and then Jock was jerked to the ground and led around to the back of the car. Then one of the men picked him up and threw him in the trunk and the lid came down with a bang!

The whole transaction was highly puzzling to the silky-haired collie. He knew nothing of course, about such things as stolen dogs and the tainted money back of such a corrupt and dishonest business. But his natural instinct told him that it was shadowy, wicked, and for no good purpose. He could tell by the sinister look in the eyes of his abductors, and in the evil scent of their smell.

Let's Go Birding

The Goose Spectacle

By Emma Mae Leonhard

It was December 3, late enough for our winter finches to be coming to us from the North. Snow covered the ground. We had seen the Red Crossbills in the pine trees, and we heard the Lapland Longspurs, cold-weather birds of our barren fields. We supposed that the geese had gone South for the winter.

As we left the scene of these winter birds and turned onto the Sniacarte road, we learned otherwise. Almost immediately we saw a few Snow and Blue Geese flying low over the extensive wheat and corn fields bordering the road, and felt lucky that we were on the spot just in time. We had taken for granted that they were already near their winter home on the Gulf Coast of Louisiana.

Then as we drove slowly along the road, we came upon the great goose spectacle so close that we didn't need binoculars. Hundreds of Blue and Snow Geese were resting on the snow-dusted green wheat field; body to body, they were either sitting in a relaxed position or standing in a fixed pose. Here was a great conglomeration of Blue Geese with their white heads and necks, and Snow Geese, all white. We could not see the black wing-tips of the latter in their position. Some of the Blue Geese were darker than others; there were immatures, intermediates, and hybrids. The surrounding snow-laced green wheat field added a spirit of fantasy to the picture.

Adjoining this field was a large cornfield that had been recently picked. As far as we could see, Blue and Snow Geese were feeding in it. The white heads and necks of geese were protruding from the beheaded and crushed tawny cornstalks; in fact, there seemed almost as many geese as cornstalks. The field literally pulsed with the feeding geese.

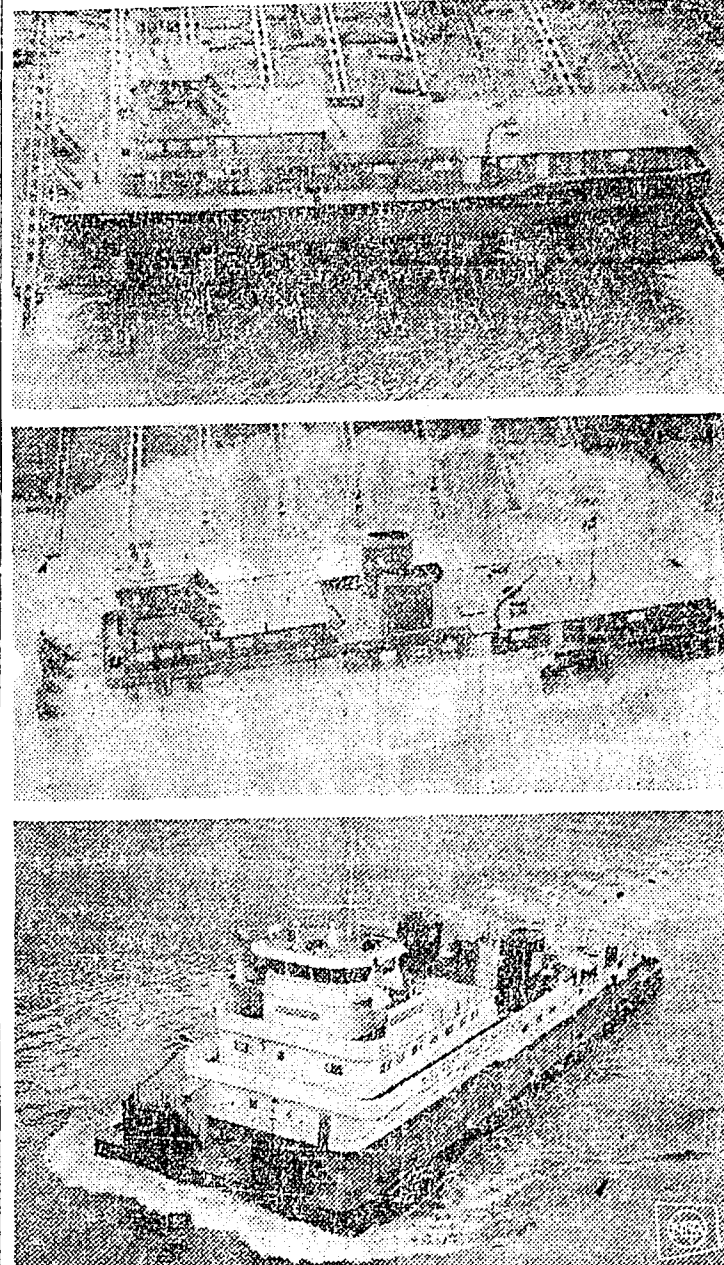

How many geese were there? We guessed at least five thousand. There could have been more, but we were sure not fewer than that fantastic number.

Thinking that these geese would move on after they had rested and fed, we loitered long enough to fill ourselves full of this unusual goose spectacle before we left them.

The following week, on December 10, we returned, without the slightest hope of seeing it again; but in the same fields, although farther from the road, were geese. There were fewer Blue Geese, about the same number of Snow Geese; but many Canada Geese had joined the vast flock. Their black stockings on long necks, their light chests, and white throat patches added a definite design to the original conglomeration of geese and completed the original goose spectacle.

removed from his face and he had plenty of food and water before him. But a dog in transit eats sparingly, and throughout the long day and on into the night he lay with eyes half closed grieving his heart out for his kindly master left behind in the little cabin back in the hills.

DOWN THE WAYS and into the water goes another modern towboat for the expanding fleet operating on the nation's more than 4,000 miles of navigable inland waterways. The vessel, the 6,340-horsepower Lillian Clark built for the Mississippi Valley Barge Line Co. by Dravo Corp. of Pittsburgh, displaced more than a quarter million gallons of water when it hit the water, second picture. Bottom shows the towboat completely fitted and ready for service on the middle and lower Mississippi. Low costs and navigation improvements on many rivers, such as the Ohio and Arkansas, are behind a boom in freight shipments by water.

CHRISTMAS MOUSE

Once there was a mouse named Larry. He was a very smart mouse but he was not as smart as Santa Claus.

On Christmas Day, Larry the Mouse was by his mousehole, when Santa Claus fell down the chimney. Larry was scared! Santa Claus said, "Ho, ho, ho." He said, "Why aren't you asleep? What is your name?" "My name is Larry the Mouse," Larry ran into his mousehole.

Then Santa said, "Come out Larry. Don't be afraid, Larry. Why don't you come back to the North Pole with me. You can make engines for my toy trains."

Larry thought that he was the luckiest mouse in the world!

(Fourth In A Series)
Discussing The Removal Of Unwanted Hair)
Wavy and kinky hairs are usually distorted. Hairs that have been tweezed or waxed become distorted making permanent removal somewhat difficult. But all can eventually be removed successfully by electrolysis.
From one treatment to the next one will notice a dramatic lessening of the number of hairs. Your electrologist will advise whenever and wherever unwanted hairs appear.
A telephone call to arrange a consultation is all that is necessary.

Farmers, Businessmen On World Trade Tour

A group of 41 Illinois farmers and businessmen interested in export sales of Illinois farm products and related items departed from Chicago's O'Hare Field Wednesday in a round-the-world flying trade mission.

The mission is the third trade mission sponsored by the Illinois Agricultural Association, state-wide Farm Bureau. Previous missions were to Europe and the Mediterranean countries.

Members of the current mission are contacting potential buyers of Illinois food and agricultural products while visiting 11 countries before returning Feb. 2. William J. Kuhfuss, Mackinaw, IAA president, is tour leader.

Among new food products being introduced on the current mission is soybean concentrate, which is expected to have good export potential. Soybeans refined for human consumption can take a variety of forms. The soybean product featured on the 1967 Farm Bureau trade mission is a sandwich spread, similar to peanut butter.

The IAA's third major foreign market development mission is aimed at finding new buyers for agricultural items from Illinois. The mission allows farmers and food industry representatives to learn exactly what will sell in Europe and Asia and other parts of the world.

The first-hand knowledge gives the producer an advantage in that he can tailor his production, or a portion of it, to the specifications of the new markets. And it assures the Illinois producer and the foreign buyer that each are dealing with reputable agricultural businessmen.

Illinois food and farm related products will be exhibited at a series of scheduled trade appointments. Buyers in England, Iran, Taiwan, the Philippines, and Japan will be contacted by the tour members carrying sales information about specific products.

In addition to the soybean spread, the mission food samples will include: High protein concentrate meal (This can be used for making bread, as a meat extender, or it can be eaten as a cereal); powdered soy milk; popcorn, packaged in special eight-ounce "four serving packs" with instructions for popping printed in four languages — English, German, French and Italian; and canned foods, including corn, beans, peas, and asparagus.

USDA Reports On Disease Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department reported today that 1966 witnessed progress in government and private efforts to bring livestock diseases and other agricultural pests under control.

The agency predicted further progress this year.

A report emphasized particularly advances made in the eradication of Brucellosis and hog cholera. Brucellosis is a cause of undulant fever in humans.

The department said 10 states have eliminated Brucellosis from their livestock herds. In all, the disease has been eradicated from cattle herds in 741 of the approximately 3,000 agricultural counties. These counties are in 30 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

A campaign against hog cholera is being stepped up in the hope of eradicating the disease by 1972. This campaign got under way in 1962 and all the states now are engaged in the effort.

See Increased River Trade For Florence

PITTSFIELD — Pittsfield Rotarians were taken on an armchair tour of the Pillsbury Mills river-side facilities at Florence during a recent meeting.

James Weakley, representing the Pillsbury firm, was guest speaker and described the company's present activities as well as plans for the future.

According to Weakley, the Florence mill is used for high-speed transfer of grain from Illinois, Missouri and Iowa. The structure was built 15 years ago, leased by Pillsbury in 1960 and later bought by the firm. Among improvements outlined by the speaker were the installation of a new hydraulic pump and a conveyor which will load five barges a day...one every three hours...a 60 foot scale house, dust control system, electrical entrance and two new driers. Weakley said the mill employs about 20 persons on a regular basis and handled 25 million bushels of grain during the year just past.

Two-way traffic is seen within the near future as the company puts into action plans to load outgoing trucks with such items as salt, steel, fertilizer, newspaper and sugar, taken from barges which would dock at Florence. Weakley said the company would utilize trucks which now leave the mill empty after delivering loads of grain.

The Farmers Union Presses For Parity

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Farmers Union is preparing to wage a battle before Congress on proposals to downgrade the farm parity price standard of federal farm aid programs.

The Agriculture Department soon will file with Congress a study which the lawmakers requested on the feasibility of continuing use of parity as a goal of farm stabilization programs. It has been reported the department will urge farm legislation make what it calls parity of income the goal of these programs rather than parity prices.

Parity prices are those returns which would give an individual farm commodity as much buying power per unit in terms of goods and services farmers buy as the buying power they possessed in a past favorable period, usually 1910-14.

Some farm leaders, including Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, have argued a parity of income standard is better than a parity price measuring rule. Parity income would be a return to farmers equivalent to that earned by a nonfarmer using equivalent skills and capital.

It is possible, they have said, to get parity income with farm prices less than parity. It is pointed out that parity prices with a small sales volume would give farmers a smaller income than large sales volumes with lower prices.

Mid-December farm prices as a whole were 23 per cent below the parity level.

with ED GARLICH
FERTILIZING SOYBEANS

Since soybeans are becoming one of the most important crops in the United States we are getting an increasing number of questions about fertilizing them.

The fertilizer program has to start with lime. In a corn-soybean cropping system the most profitable Ph level for corn will be OK for the beans. If the cropping system includes clover or alfalfa, you'll need more lime. Now let's look at fertilizers. For a high yield of any crop you need a good fertility program. The real question about phosphorous and potassium is whether you should build the fertility level of the whole plow layer by applying the fertilizer ahead of corn or some other crop or whether you apply the fertilizer directly for the soybeans. All of the research that I know about shows that it is more economical to apply it somewhere else in the cropping system and then let the soybeans eat all the second table—so to speak.

The Farmers Union Presses For Parity

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Farmers Union is preparing to wage a battle before Congress on proposals to downgrade the farm parity price standard of federal farm aid programs.

The Agriculture Department soon will file with Congress a study which the lawmakers requested on the feasibility of continuing use of parity as a goal of farm stabilization programs.

It has been reported the department will urge farm legislation make what it calls parity of income the goal of these programs rather than parity prices.

Parity prices are those returns which would give an individual farm commodity as much buying power per unit in terms of goods and services farmers buy as the buying power they possessed in a past favorable period, usually 1910-14.

Some farm leaders, including Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, have argued a parity of income standard is better than a parity price measuring rule. Parity income would be a return to farmers equivalent to that earned by a nonfarmer using equivalent skills and capital.

It is possible, they have said, to get parity income with farm prices less than parity. It is pointed out that parity prices with a small sales volume would give farmers a smaller income than large sales volumes with lower prices.

Mid-December farm prices as a whole were 23 per cent below the parity level.

ACROSS THE Fields AND Furrows

with ED GARLICH
FERTILIZING SOYBEANS

Since soybeans are becoming one of the most important crops in the United States we are getting an increasing number of questions about fertilizing them.

The fertilizer program has to start with time. In a corn-soybean cropping system the most profitable Ph level for corn will be OK for the beans. If the cropping system includes clover or alfalfa, you'll need more lime.

Now let's look at fertilizers. For a high yield of any crop you need a good fertility program. The only real question about phosphorous and potassium is whether you should build the fertility level of the whole plot layer by applying the fertilizer ahead of corn or some other crop, or whether you apply the fertilizer directly for the soybeans. All of the research that I know about shows that it is more economical to apply it somewhere else in the cropping system and then let the soybeans eat all the second table-so to speak.

FROM THE CORN CRIB
A New Yorker was driving his Cadillac through the hills of Kentucky when he got a flat tire. As he was changing the tire, an old man walked up to him and peered at the car with awe. "What do you do for a living, stranger?" asked the old man.

"I'm a union leader," said the man.

"The old man's eyes opened wide. "Don't you damn Yankees know the war is over?" he bel-lowed.

FRENCH SCIENTISTS TEST MONKEYS

PARIS (AP) — With space tests of rats and cats behind them, French scientists are training monkeys in a Pavlovian gundrop method to determine their reaction to weightlessness. The monkeys learn that pressure on one of five buttons brings a gumdrop out of a machine, and the scientists want to know whether their behavior pattern can be the same in space. The monkeys are to be lofted by two Vesta rockets soon from launching pads at Hammaguir, in the Sahara.

LAST IMMUNIZATION DAY JAN. 12th AT NEW BERLIN HIGH

NEW BERLIN — The third and final day in the Immunization Program series will be held at 9 a.m. Thursday, January 12, in the New Berlin High School.

The measles vaccine will be available for the first time in this program, to all children over nine months of age. Previously the vaccine was offered only to children from nine months to six years. The oral polio vaccine will also be offered, in addition to the other routine shots.

Any parent desiring the measles or oral polio vaccine for their child should register, either in person or by telephone, with the unit office in New Berlin no later than 4 p.m. Monday, January 9. A parent's signature is required before administering the vaccine, but this may be taken care of when the parent brings the child on Thursday morning.

However, it is imperative that the child be registered no later than Monday, in order to have enough vaccine on Thursday.

Cost to the parent is fifty cents per vaccine.

The immunization program has been sponsored for over thirty continuous years by the health division, New Berlin Woman's Club, in cooperation with the schools, the local physician and the Visiting Nurses' Association. Mrs. John Ridder is presently health chairman.

Tropical Summer Now At Copacabana Beach

By CLAUDE E. ERBSEN
RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Down here, with the seasons reversed, tropical summer with all its torments is settling onto the famous beach called Copacabana.

More than 350,000 persons packed into the strip of land behind a crescent of sand will swelter and curse the heat, the noise, the dirt and the lack of public services.

But most of them wouldn't move. If they did, thousands more are waiting to move into what may be the most crowded suburb in Latin America.

Cariocas — as Rio residents are known — don't seem to mind that the beach grows dirtier as the summer moves along, or the constant din of traffic choked into Copacabana's narrow streets.

Nonresidents flock to shop in its boutiques and its 53 art galleries, to play in its 52 major bars and night clubs, or just to toast in the sun on the beach.

They also scrimp and save so that some day they may move there.

Copacabana is built on a narrow strip between sea and mountains. It is 2 1/2 miles long and seldom more than five blocks wide. Residents and visitors jam its 2.4 square miles. Those who live there pay as much as $1,500 a month for a beachside apartment. This doesn't guarantee them either water or electricity. Both have been in chronic short supply in Copacabana.

More modest housing is available behind the beach. Families of five or six crowd into tiny two-bedroom apartments just for the status of a Copacabana address.

More than a quarter of Copacabana's residents live in the squalid shantytown "Favelas," precariously perched on hills overlooking the beach. They have neither water nor sewage facilities, but the view is great.

The eight per cent of Copacabana residents who earn more than $500 monthly give the area its glitter.

Copacabana boasts Rio's highest traffic accident rate, a rapidly growing crime rate, and one of the city's highest noise levels.

It is short on schools and residents complain that the city is cutting into already inadequate parks and squares to build a tourist information center and other public buildings. Recent surveys focus atten-

Religion In The News

By GHULAM MALIK

DINAJUR, East Pakistan (AP) — Eighteen months ago, Edna McGovern, a widowed mother of three, was an executive secretary in San Francisco.

"I had everything — a beautiful home, children and all the gaiety," she said. "But I wanted a change. I was tired of the routine of working in an air-conditioned office with piped-in stereo music."

Then, one day she read a newsletter put out by the Foster Parents Mission Club of Detroit, Mich. It asked for volunteers for East Pakistan.

Agreeing to pay her own travel expenses and to work without salary, Mrs. McGovern began packing and saying goodbye to her immediate family — two sons and a daughter aged 17 to 21.

"They thought I was out of my mind," she recalled.

But after a delay caused by the India-Pakistan war of September 1965, Mrs. McGovern finally left for her new home in Dinajur, arriving March 4, 1966.

Together with Miss Helen Mannes, 63, of St. Louis, Mo., Mrs. McGovern, 52, works in the main Pakistan office of Aid to Distressed Children which cooperates with the Foster Parents Mission Club.

They also help care for hundreds of destitute and orphaned aborigine children who live at the nearby Novera Center, which was built 17 years ago with $12,000 in donations from students in Novera, Italy. It is managed by priests from Italy.

"I don't know where I could find such satisfying work," said Miss Mannes who has been here since July 1963. "I feel I am really doing something worthwhile."

The two women, who receive free room and board, live in a small stucco residence that has no electricity or plumbing. They do not have access to regular deliveries of newspapers or magazines and appear happily unaware of the tensions and crises of the rest of the world.

Altogether, they supervise the care of 1,140 children who live in 16 ADC centers in the four northern districts of East Pakistan, about 200 miles northwest of Dacca.

Many of the children, who come from backward tribes of the region, have been adopted by "Foster Parents" in the United States who send at least $5 a month for their upkeep.

Military Funeral Held For Terry Carls

Memorial services, with military rites at the Beardstown cemetery, were conducted Friday afternoon for Sp. 4 Terry Alan Carls of Virginia, who was killed in action while on duty with the army in Vietnam December 31.

Carls, the 19-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Carls, was killed by a sniper while returning from patrol duty two hours after the New Year's holiday truce went into effect.

His death was the first Vietnam war casualty for Cass county.

Two o'clock memorial services at the Virginia Methodist church were conducted by Rev. Rusby Slinkard, with Dotty Knight at the organ.

Prior to the services, Virginia schools were dismissed and local businesses closed for the services. Throughout Virginia flags flew at half-mast.

Members of Carls' Virginia High school graduating class of 1965 served as pallbearers.

They were Charles Haglock, Roger Jokisch, Bernard Devlin, Billy White Jr., Dave Rochester, David McElford, Rick Smith and Tom Lamont.

Flower girls, also classmates, were Dianne Sutherland, Janet Griffin, Mary Lou Dudley, Elsie Norris, Joyce Brodman Taylor, and Karen Beddingfield.

Members of the Walter Reid American Legion Post 258 from Virginia conducted military rites at the Beardstown city cemetery with John Pierce, Corban Thomas, Elmer Bingham, and John Keeney, color guard; John Graves, chaplain and two Virginia High school students, Pat Hoppin and Laurie Finney, buglers.

Sgt. Frank Johnson of Ft. Leonard Wood served as escort and Maj. Mueller, from the Lincoln Army Command in Springfield, represented the U.S. Army.

The Massie Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

GREENVILLE — MacMurray poured in ten of the last 11 points in the first half to break open a tight game and then stormed to an easy 102-84 victory over Greenville, here Friday night.

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Braves will write the end of the Eddie Mathews trade by sending infielder Sandy Alomar to the Houston Astros.

The Braves announced Friday that Alomar, considered one of the best defensive infielders in the Braves' organization, is the last player to be included in the five-player deal involving $100,000 bonus pitcher Arnold Um-bach. Mathews was the key player in the trade.

Under terms of the trade, Mathews, Umbach and Alomar go to Houston and Astro outfielder Dave Nicholson and pitcher Bob Bruce move to Atlanta.

Trojans Rip ISD, 59-31 In PMSC

By DAVE INGLIS

Triopia outgunned a cold ISD squad Friday night and waited to an easy 59-31 triumph over the Tigers at the IC gym in a PMSC contest.

The Trojans battled even for the first few minutes but ISD's cold shooting eye began to tell early and the visitors ran up a nine-point first period margin. Balanced scoring was the key to Triopia's early blitz as four men hit buckets.

High scorers Bill Meier and Terry Surratt took over for the victors in the second stanza as Triopia ran up a twenty-point spread by intermission. Meier bucketed four and dropped in four free tosses while Surratt hit for three goals and a charity throw as the pair accounted for the entire Trojan output of 19 for the quarter.

The Triopia onslaught continued in the third frame as the blue and white managed a thirty-point margin entering the final period. Surratt's eight points led the surge, as ISD could only manage one field goal during the eight minutes.

Trojan reserve Bernard Meyer held up the lead in the final stanza pouring in four goals. ISD relied on free throws to out-punt the winners by a pair in the last quarter.

Cold shooting was the downfall of the Tigers all evening as they could only manage 10 goals in 46 tries from the floor. The winners posted a respectable 44% mark from the floor.

Both teams fell victim to sloppy play following the holiday layoff as a total of 36 turnovers were committed during the evening.

Bill Meier led the scorers with 20 for the Trojans and teammate Surratt was right behind with 19. Terry Storey was high for ISD with 9 as Harry Bloomgren and Gary Shaw each added five.

The win kept the Trojans unbeaten in the PMSC with a 4-0 slate and an 8-3 overall record. ISD dropped to 1-2 in the conference and 2-7 for the season.

Greenview, Eagles Win At Ashland

ASHLAND — Greenview posted a 63-58 win over Waverly here Friday night to advance to the championship game against the host Panthers. Mt. Sterling St. Mary's downed St. James of Springfield 52-42 in the consolation bracket to advance into the final game against Meredosia.

Despite a hot shooting night with a 51% mark, Waverly could not overcome torrid second and third quarters by the Tigers. The victors went up at halftime by five and increased the lead to 11 entering the final quarter as Waverly vainly tried to rally. Greenview hit for 39% of its field goal attempts.

Waverly was superior from the line as well as from the floor as they connected for 18 of 29 from the charity stripe. Greenview could manage only 9 of 27 free tosses. The Scotties matched the taller Tigers in rebounds but could not control the ball enough to count.

Jody Clemons led the winners with 19 with Dave Hollis and Ted Tice adding 14 and 13, respectively. Rodney Ball paced the Scotties with 17 and Max Dunsteth added 15.

Success from the floor was the difference in the consolation game as St. Mary's rang up a 54% effort against St. James' meager 31% mark.

With five and a half minutes remaining in the contest, St. James tied it up at 39 before St. Mary's pulled away. Dan Follis led the winning surge with 8 points in the final quarter.

Bob Kassing of St. Mary's and Jim Blake and John Trello of St. James all shared high point honors with 14. Dan Follis added 10 for the winners. The victory was number three in 13 for St. Mary's.

Halas Says Super Bowl To Be Tight

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Football League generally and the Kansas City Chiefs particularly got a surprising boost Friday from the patriarch of the National Football League.

owner-coach George Halas of the Chicago Bears.

Halas, 72, one of the NFL's founding fathers in 1920, predicted victory, "but closer than anyone else seems to believe," by the NFL champion Green Bay Packers over the AFL title-bearing Chiefs in their Super Bowl game Jan. 15.

Few NFL leaders held the AFL with greater scorn than Halas when the rival AFL—now merged with the NFL—began operation in 1960.

But Papa Bear, a man with strong opinions in the pro game he helped lead through impetuous years, now concedes that the seven-year-old AFL has remedied its most glaring early weakness, defensive play.

Defense Only Difference

"Whatever difference existed between the two leagues was defense," said Halas. "This difference has tightened up. I watched, on TV, Kansas City defeat Buffalo after the AFL title and I simply don't believe that disparity between the defenses exists any longer."

"That league AFL has emphasized defense in the last few years. It showed in that title game at Buffalo."

"The single, significant reason the Green Bay-Kansas City playoff at Los Angeles is going to be much closer than many expect is that the Chiefs came up with their tightest defense of the year in a game that meant so much to them against Buffalo."

Halas also expressed surprise that Green Bay's forte, defense, was challenged so thoroughly by Dallas before the Packers won the NFL title, 34-27.

"Just like everybody else, I couldn't believe it," said Halas, whose Bears 5-7-2 lost to Green Bay 17-0 and then only 13-6 in regular NFL play.

Woods Leads 69-64 Wildcat Margin

PALMYRA — Jim Woods' 34-point evening carried Northwest to a slim 69-64 MSM Conference edge over Virden, here Friday night.

Woods, also the winners' leading rebounder, hit ten points in the first quarter and 11 in the final eight minutes when the Wildcats took command.

Northwestern trailed after eight minutes but led at half-time and the two clubs battled back and forth after that.

The win boosts Northwestern to 6-3 overall and 3-1 in the conference.

ONE CITED AFTER THREE CAR CRASH

One driver was ticketed as a result of a three-car accident in the 300 block of East Morton at about 4:15 Friday afternoon.

City police stated that a car operated by Terry L. Hutchins of route two, Waverly, was westbound on Morton when it collided with the rear of a panel truck, driven by Carl W. Sharon of 421 South East.

The truck then rammed into the rear of a car driven by Steven D. Barnes of 139 Prospect. The Barnes car and the truck operated by Sharon were both halted in a lane of traffic, waiting for an unidentified auto to turn left.

Hutchins told officers that the gas pedal on his car stuck. Hutchins was cited for driving too fast for conditions.

Lions Fire Head Coach Harry Gilmer

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Lions fired head coach Harry Gilmer Friday after two losing seasons.

The National Football League club, owned by William Clay Ford, announced the firing after Gilmer's team finished the season with a dismal 4-9-1 record.

The 1965 season saw a 6-7-1 record.

Gilmer had one year to go on his three-year contract, and the Lions said Gilmer would be paid in full for it.

Ford said no successor had been picked but that Joe Schmidt, former Lions linebacker and last season an assistant coach, was under consideration.

"The former Alabama quarterback, who played as a pro for the Washington Redskins and the Lions, came to Detroit from an assistant's job at Minnesota."

Last year he drew criticism from both fans and players. In Free Press, said Thursday that the last game, a 23-16 loss to the Minnesota Vikings, Gilmer was "bombed with snowballs from the stands."

Twice he was serenade with "Bye, Bye, Harry," by fans at Lions games.

Turn Toward Youth

Under Gilmer, the Lions turned toward youth and let go a number of long-time standbys, including fullback Nick Pietrosante and end Sam Williams. Both left Detroit with critical blasts at Gilmer.

After the last game of 1966, a 28-16 loss to Minnesota, Ford said he would carefully weigh all the factors before making any announcement about the coach.

Ford made the announcement after Gilmer returned from a Southern scouting trip.

"It always is an unpleasant step to take," Ford said. "However, my goal is to field a winning football team in Detroit and I reluctantly have come to the conclusion that our chances would be better with a change of head coaches."

Both Detroit newspapers, the Free Press, said Thursday that Schmidt had been given a five-year contract and had already signed. They quoted sources close to the club.

Gilmer was paid $35,000 a year.

Ford denied that Schmidt had been signed.

Johnny Keane Dies Of Attack

HOUSTON (AP)—John Joseph Johnny Keane, the peppery ex-manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees, died Friday night in his Houston home of an acute heart attack. He was 55.

Keane led the Cardinals to a 1964 World Series victory over the Yankees, four games to three. Almost immediately, he gave the Cards his resignation, the Yankees fired Yogi Berra as manager and Keane was Berra's replacement.

When the Yankees plunged to 10th place last May, Ralph Houk replaced Keane as manager.

At the time of his death, Keane was a special assignment scout for the American League California Angels.

Keane was born in St. Louis, but he was a Houston resident for more than 30 years, playing and managing the Texas League Houston Buffs before moving into the big leagues. He was a third baseman in his playing days.

He managed Cardinal farm teams in Rochester, N.Y.; Omaha, Neb., and Columbus before moving up to the parent club as a coach and placed Solly Hemus as Cardinal manager.

After his 1964 series victory, Keane said, "I waited 35 years for this. That's a long time, but it was worth it. I never dreamed a human being could be this happy."

Conduct Rites For Harry Alred

Funeral services for Harry Alred were held at 2 p.m. Friday at Cody and Son Memorial Home with Reverend John Henschke officiating. Mrs. Arthur Hecker, organist, played "Beyond The Sunset" and "In The Garden."

Serving as pallbearers were Melvin C. Akers, Floyd Hess, Paul Burger, Web Kinsell, Lawrence Crawford, Bill Ranson, Lewis Foster and John Savoie.

Burial was in Memorial Lawn cemetery.
